In addition to the random encounter tables, Random Tables also includes a number of helpful appendices, such as a bestiary of over 500 creatures, a list of over 100 magic items, and a guide to creating your own custom random encounter tables.

How to Use Random Tables

Using Random Tables is easy. Simply choose the table that corresponds to the environment and terrain where your players are currently adventuring, and roll a die to generate a random encounter.

You can use the encounter as is, or you can modify it to fit your specific campaign. For example, you could change the creature type, the number of creatures, or the difficulty of the encounter.

You can also use Random Tables to generate ideas for new encounters. For example, if you roll a random encounter that you don't like, you can use it as a starting point for creating your own custom encounter.
